

Recent Features on VEF & Portfolio Companies

Dear Fellow Shareholders,

With the acceleration in growth of digital financial services over the past few months, there has been an increase in investor demand for knowledge on the fintech space. Investment banks, media and investors alike, have been placing more time and resources into understanding one of the strongest secular growth trends in the world today. VEF, and many of our portfolio companies, have been very active on this front, working with our many partners to share all we have experienced and seen, both before and through this window of increased digitisation of all.

Hence, in advance of our 2Q20 report, we wanted to share some recent panels and publications that VEF and our portfolio companies have been featured in, providing a healthy amount of colour on our investment company, the countries and segments we invest in, and most importantly in some of our key portfolio holdings today.

- VEF was profiled in an exclusive research interview in FT Partners' Monthly Market Update, detailing how we provide unique investor access to one of the strongest structural growth trends in the world - fintech in emerging markets. Available to read here.
- Portfolio companies Creditas and Konfio took part in an online webinar on how they are playing an integral role in shaping fintech in LatAm. The event was hosted by Finnovista - watch it here.
- Creditas and Guiabolso also took part in an online panel discussion hosted by BayBrazil on the future of fintech in LatAm, alongside fellow fintech benchmark names, Brex and NuBank. Access the recording here.
- Citi hosted VEF CEO Dave Nangle on the Citi Digi Money fintech podcast to discuss the digital wealth management and investments opportunity in Brazil. Dave was joined by Luciano Tavares, CEO of VEF portfolio company Magnetis, Brazil's leading roboadvisor.
- We have loved reading Morgan Stanley's LatAm research of late – they recently profiled Creditas as part of their LatAm Tech Conference, while also publishing research on the rise of online brokers in Brazil and the Brazilian technology sector more broadly.
